Prsentation de l'diteurWhen Stephen Capel moved to his first parish in a rural village after four years as a prison chaplain he expected a quiet life. Not to discover a drowned man in the ruined tower on top of Glastonbury Tor.Dealing with an increasingly complicated relationship with the local police, Capel begins to suspect that there is a link between this death and the murder of a famously eccentric photographer in Glastonbury Abbey the year before. His quest takes him to the sophisticated streets of Bath and up onto the ancient white horse at Uffington. In the end, though, it's Capel's understanding of people that will make or break the case.The Stephen Capel Mysteries bring the classic British detective story into the twenty-first century. Présentation de l'auteur When Stephen Capel moved to his first parish in a rural village after four years as a prison chaplain he expected a quiet life. Not to discover a drowned man in the ruined tower on top of Glastonbury Tor. Dealing with an increasingly complicated relationship with the local police, Capel begins to suspect that there is a link between this death and the murder of a famously eccentric photographer in Glastonbury Abbey the year before. His quest takes him to the sophisticated streets of Bath and up onto the ancient white horse at Uffington. In the end, though, it's Capel's understanding of people that will make or break the case. The Stephen Capel Mysteries bring the classic British detective story into the twenty-first century. Biographie de l'auteur Brian Clegg is an award-winning popular science writer whose books include The God Effect, A Brief History of Infinity, Inflight Science and The Quantum Age. Brian has had a number of short stories published, and his Stephen Capel mysteries reflect a love of traditional British murder mysteries by writers from Margery Allingham to Colin Dexter. When not writing, Brian spends much of his working life giving talks on science to audiences from schools to major venues like the Royal Institution and the Science Museum. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts and runs a popular science book blog.

Brian lives in Wiltshire and has a love of Tudor and Elizabethan church music.
